Ice Painting

Artistic Adventures

Ages: 3-5

30 minutes

Grownup needed

Ever wondered what it's like to paint on ice? This fascinating experiment allows children to unleash their creativity by painting with watercolours on ice. As the ice melts, the paint flows and spreads, creating magical patterns of interweaving colours on the icy surface. This activity not only sparks their imagination but also enhances their sensory development and nurtures their curiosity about natural phenomena.

Materials Needed

Plate
Ice cubes
Watercolour paints
Paintbrush
Paint palette

Step-by-step tutorial

Step 1

Squeeze the paint onto the palette.

Step 2

Using a paintbrush or your fingers, start painting on the ice!

Step 3

Try adding different colours and temperatures of paint to see what happens!
